

Labour Together: Three-month Policy Research Internship

Starting late October

Paid London Living Wage, plus an allowance of £250 per week for applicants based outside of London

3-4 days per week in the office (Millbank Tower, SW1P 4QP)

About Labour Together

Labour Together was built by a group of MPs - Rachel Reeves, Wes Streeting, Shabana Mahmood, Steve Reed, Bridget Philipson, Lucy Powell, Lisa Nandy and Jon Cruddas.

Labour Together exists to explore how to win and govern in the era of insecurity. Labour Together develops bold ideas to make Britain stronger and more secure, and give Britons back hope and confidence in their future.

The team consists of policy experts, political strategists and pollsters. They have worked in government, the private sector and charities, in political parties and on political campaigns.

About the internship

This internship will start at the end of November and run until Jan 2025. You'll be researching key election topics such as housing, the cost of living, economic growth, industrial strategy, skills and migration. You'll be undertaking desk research as well as writing briefings and resources.

About you

- Demonstrate a passion for politics, ideally aligned with the Labour Party
- Strong critical analysis and the ability to interrogate a variety of research findings from policy reports to academic studies
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Able to manage your time effectively
- Able to work as part of a team
- Good computer skills, including word processing and conducting online research

How to apply
